Death & Our New Existence

October 7-Preparation: What's a Good Death? What role should doctors play in talking to patients about their probable life expectancy? What options do the dying and family members of the dying have? How does the reluctance to talk about death lead to the floundering of family members in a crisis? This discussion will be led by Dr. Thomas Klemond, a physician who focuses on palliative care.

October 14 -- Preparation: Legacy Letters: Write a "Legacy Letter" to share your values, beliefs, faith, life lessons, wisdom, love and forgiveness in a document that is in addition to your Last Will and Testament. Your Legacy Letter passes on the life lessons of ancestors, and teaches something about the meaning of life that can be helpful to, and appreciated by, future generations. Catherine Manning, a trained facilitator of Legacy Letters, will lead this discussion.

October 21 -- Passage: What to Expect When Someone is Dying: What are the signs that death is near? What services do hospice workers perform? What are the common misconceptions about hospice care? How do hospice workers handle the pain of the dying? What must occur before someone is placed "on hospice care"? Lisa Harrel, a hospice worker, will lead this discussion.

October 28 -- Arrival: What Do We Know About Heaven? There's a lot that we don't know about heaven, but some things are known. Pastor Antonio Machado will lead this discussion.

November 4 -- Grieving: How do We Help Those Left Behind? What can be expected? What are the stages of grief? Where can you find help? Joan Apt, a bereavement coordinator, will lead this discussion.

November 11 -- What to Do After the Funeral. Who needs to be notified? Who is responsible for the deceased's bills? How are assets transferred to the deceased's heirs? Is probate necessary? Bonnie Wittenburg, a lawyer, will lead the discussion.
